

Tech Boot Camp: Meetup.com

What is Meetup.com?

Meetup.com is a social media website where you can meet new people, and try new activities! You can search for events, groups and like-minded people in your community, or even create your own "meetup" group.

Getting together with real people in real life makes powerful things happen. Side hustles become careers, ideas become movements, and chance encounters become lifelong connections. Meetup brings people together to create thriving communities.

How to sign up: you can use Facebook, Google or an email address and password!

Once you've set up your account, you can start searching! You can search within a geographical location, and use key words to find what kind of meetup you are looking for. For example, you could look up "book club" or "hiking" in London Ontario.

Groups

You can sort your results by groups or by dates (calendar) and select the ones you are interested in

Calendar

When you have found a meetup group you would like to join, click on it for more information! You can find out more information and see upcoming events, and decide if you want to attend. You can join the group to get email updates, etc. about the group and it's events.
